QUARANTINE PENS FOR SOUTHERN CATTLE

Under the provisions of Bureau of Animal Industry Order 309, effective May 1, 1928, the interstate shipment of cattle, for any purpose, which are tick infested or exposed to tick infestation (Margaropus annulatus) will be prohibited, and the need for quarantine pens reserved for southern cattle at and en route to the places to which the interstate shipment of such cattle for immediate slaughter has, from time to time, been authorized, will cease.

Such pens may therefore be released for regular use on being cleaned and disinfected under bureau supervision, or, if it can be definitely established that the pens have not been used by any livestock for a period of nine months immediately preceding their release, when authorized by a bureau inspector, the quarantine sign may be removed and the pens released without disinfection. The bureau should be promptly notified of such action.
